

National Association of Black Writers

The State of the Writing & Publishing Industry for People of Color

The National Association of Black Writers held a conference in New York last weekend. C-SPAN's Book TV broadcast the program.

Segments such as Black Writer's in the Marketplace, and, The Role of Social Media: Black Writers Take Literature to the web contains a helpful overview of the current state of the industry and the challenges newbies and established entrepreneurs face.

For potential entrepreneurs interested in writing and publishing, there's a lot of insight for anyone thinking about entering the field.

The diverse, multicultural panel of experts held a Q&A for the audience and viewers gained additional insight.

References

The State of Publishing for Black Writers, March 25, 2018

<https://www.c-span.org/organization/?49271/National-Black-Writers-Conference>

Black Writers in the Marketplace.

C-Span.org/April 28, 2012

<https://www.c-span.org/video/?305646-2/black-writers-marketplace>

The Role of Social Media/April 2012

C-Span.org

<https://www.c-span.org/video/?305646-1/role-social-media-black-writers-literature-web>

Black Writers in the Digital Age/May 2016

C-Span.org

a multicultural panel discussion includes a former rock musician turned publisher, and writers who offer an inside glimpse of their creative journey in the marketplace. Industry insights, tips, and Q &A.

<https://www.c-span.org/video/?407488-2/panel-discussion-black-writers-digital-age>